You could not have asked for a flatter terrain.

You could not have asked for better running/walking weather.

You could have asked for nicer smelling surroundings and you certainly could have asked for less horse poo.

The piles of shit were so big that at one stage I feared we'd lost 'No Balls'. I heard a scream, and then.... I don't recall seeing her for the rest of the night.

Budda suggested that Ninja was responsible for the piles of poo that were twice her size. Seriously, what do you think I feed her???

That comment reminded me of a joke. (Warning, mild racism ahead):

'One day there was an Indian chief who was constipated. He sent one of his warriors to the witch doctor to get some medicine. The warrior goes to the doctor and says; "Big Chief, no shit". The doctor gave him one laxative pill and told him; "The chief should be fine tomorrow".

The warrior went back to the chief and gave him the pill. The next morning the warrior was sent back to the witch doctor and says; "Big Chief, no shit". The doctor gives him five pills and tells him to give them to the Chief.

The next day the warrior appears at the witch doctor's house yet again saying; "Big Chief, no shit". The doctor gets annoyed and so gives the warrior the whole bottle of pills to give to the chief.

The next day the warrior goes back to the witch doctor;

"Big shit!! No chief."

We managed to navigate our way around the poo to find ourselves on some back-street practice trotting tracks. These were surprisingly poo-free, yet the footpaths from earlier were not.... what is going on in this suburb???

The pack was kept together well, with the walkers and runners meeting up on a few occasions. Except for Dickhead and ELF who didn't want to search for the hole in the bush as per the 'burst of shit' and decided to go their own way (just like Fleetwood Mac).

Our RAness promised us a short circle. What a pile of horse shit! I had to add many more cells to the above table to fit everything in. Well, if (in his words) a 'short circle is a good circle', then this particular circle must have been terrible!

We were highly entertained by Bigus's breakdancing performance. Yes indeed, with his obvious equipment for the pole vault, and his B-Boy skills, we are certain to NOT bring back gold for these events in 2028.

As I was watching the Olympics in the last few weeks, I thought about how hard it would be to be a judge for many of the events, such as: Diving, Gymnastics, Break-dancing.....actually, no, not the Break-dancing. That was pretty easy to spot what was just wrong. I feel the same way about having to be the judge each week for the 'Unfair and subjective Run Score' in the trash. This is a huge responsibility and I don't like having such power. I really only want to give everyone a '10' as, I know that to be a Hare is a big job and we are always thankful for everyone who steps up. So, from now on, pay no attention to the scores.... I'll be closing my eyes and making it up.

I'm off now to scrape shit off my shoes.

I was supposed to write an announcement here, because it was not important and no-one would read this far anyway.... but I forgot what the hell the announcement was. Hmm...was it something about Olive not wanting me to write about her birthday.... No, that's not it. I guess I could make something up, seeing as no one is reading.... Ok, next week everyone must come dressed as their favourite Wizard of Oz character. Ninja will come as Toto. I won't be in fancy dress though; as I didn't read this.
