AH3 XMAS PARTY 2024

Today's episode of Sesame Street is proudly brought to you by the Oxford English Dictionary....and the number 2

Definitions:

Commitment - something which regularly takes up some of your time because of an agreement you have made or because of responsibilities that you have.

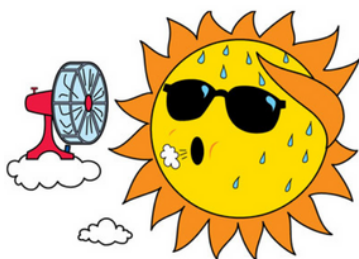

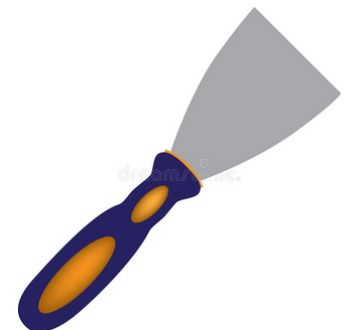

Runner – Faster than a Walker (that's not in the dictionary, that's just a given.... or is it....).

Volunteer – a person who does something willingly and without being forced or paid to do it.

Soapbox – this trash

Taking the Piss - this trash

Stripper – a device or substance for removing paint, varnish etc. (You can just imagine my surprise when a lady started to take her clothes off instead!!)

With the temperature still in the very high 30s at 6.30pm, I decided that only fools would run in this heat. I was right, only fools did. I left my home with the temperature still sweltering, only to arrive at the Magic Cave 5 minutes later with the temperature having dropped at least 15 degrees. Bah Humbug, I could have run after all.

Due to the promise of entertainment to come, only a short walk/run was planned. It was very well set, with the walkers right behind the runners throughout the run, due to the runners doing checks at multiple intervals..... or because the runner are just slow.... you decide.

500 metres from home we walkers were worried that we were about to involuntarily take part in a wet t-shirt competition to rival the paid entertainment. Massive drops of rain fell. Drops so big that they drenched us with every drop. Luckily it only lasted a few seconds.... just like a few men I know.

This night's 'all you can drink' offer was taken pretty literally, as, according to our Keg Master, the eskies were pretty empty at the end of the night. It's no wonder the Circle was such a shemozzle with drunken Christmas carols and spillages a-plenty. It's a real sign that something is not quite right, when I'm standing next to two topless ladies and I'm embarrassed.... not by them... but by US.

The ladies did a good job of ensuring that no-one was left thirsty at any stage. They do a much better job of it than Unstoppable. Maybe we ought to start paying her more. Let's pay her double what she's getting now, shall we...

Then the main entertainment started. First, the rules needed to be laid down. Rules, rules, rules, rules, rules. At first, I thought the show might be over before it started; with one individual; who probably couldn't give a f, nearly making her pack up and leave. Eventually she decided to shut him up by filling his mouth with marshmallows.

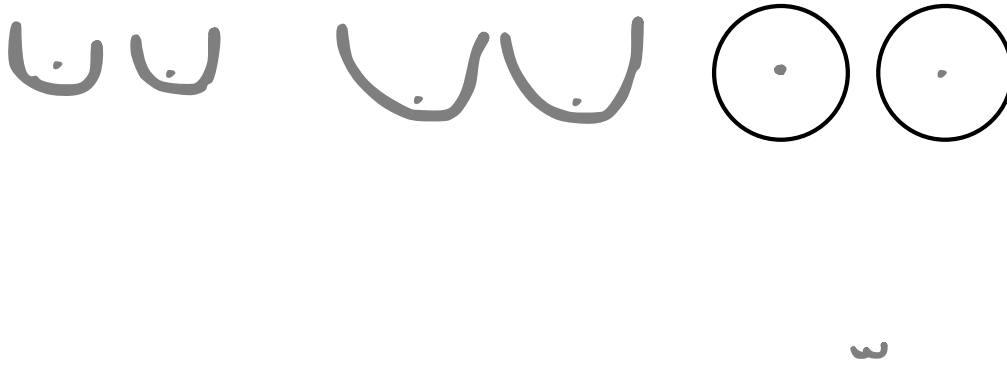

I felt a bit sorry for the poor lady. She obviously needed some pockets, or maybe even a little handbag, as then she might have had some more appropriate places to store those items.

I also feel a little sad for her lack of flexibility. I mean, I can understand not having the ability to rub sunscreen on your own back and shoulders, but on your front????? It was very kind of ELF and Bearded to assist her, as you can never be too careful with melanoma's - especially if you aren't wearing a top.

One of the rules of the evening was that no photos were to be taken.

So, I have provided an artists impression.

Many thanks go to the people who worked so hard (especially on this extremely hot day) to make this party happen:

ELF for the use of his Magic Cave.

Bigus Dickus for setting trail and cooking the meat.

Betty Boop for the Salads, nibbles and other accompaniments.

Inherendo for the desserts

Crunchy for assisting with food purchases.

McTaf for the drinks.

Bearded Clam for all his extensive research on the ladies who were hired to entertain.....
.....some tasks were obviously more difficult than others.

Inherendo had spent time preparing some beautifully refreshing desserts. Little did she know that the men would have filled up on marshmallows beforehand.

Thank you to Bearded for offering his place for the run next Monday.

See you then.
