Look, we all know that what is written up every week is a load of Trash, it's even called that. But I kind of do take offence at email servers putting me straight into people's junk folders.

Some of you have even found my emails in your spam folders. In your computers defence, last week I did include a picture of processed meat (Fritz) so I guess it's only doing its job.

But yeah, if you can't find my weekly emails, please check your junk and spam folders. Hmmm, I realise that it's kind of redundant to type that actually, as, if you can't see this email, you won't see that sentence. 😊

Anyhow, on with the show.

And what a show it was.

A special run for a special person brings out some very special guests. There were definitely some 'Back from the very Dead' at Mo-Ped's 1000th run. You can read who in the charges section.

We arrived at Bigus Dickus's Palace and admired each other's 'M' costumes. There were Mexicans, Muppets, Muso's, Mullets & More.

As we took off on our run, I heard Olive say: "what a perfect night for a run" ....and it really was. Perfect weather. Surprisingly there was no drink stop to hydrate the weary. Luckily the runners found their own.

As always, Bigus planned a fantastic run. Trail had us running through the suburbs, parklands and along picturesque creek beds. It was hilly on occasion.... but after all, Valley View doesn't even pretend to be flat. There were checks a-plenty to keep the pack together.

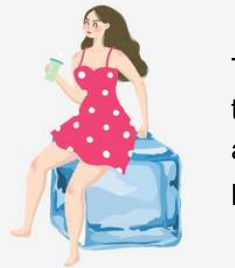

We pretty much arrived back at the palace together, with the exception of Olive and Elf who decided to race back together. In fact, it was clearly ELF who was heard to instigate the race, yet, as always it was the fall-girl Olive who was sent home with the Anchor.

After a feast of crisps and calamari, Circle was called....sung?....warbled? Whatever you want to call that noise, it certainly alerts us to the fact that it's circle time.

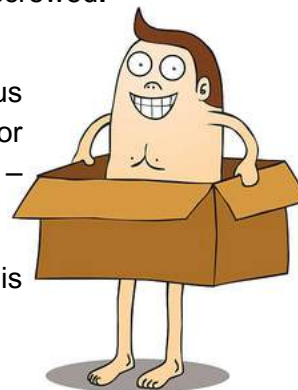

Now, you know they say that women can do more than one thing at a time. It is true. That night, during the circle I was drinking (it IS a drinking club; I was only following the rules) AND taking photos (by request of the man of honour). So, I couldn't possibly take notes too. That's asking too much of any woman. Then my phone battery died, so I was only drinking. Luckily, I remember some of what transpired. Besides, there is not enough paper in the world to keep notes on a circle that goes on for that amount of time.

This is a club with technically no rules, yet, why is it that when someone (RA) tells us to sit on a bag of ice, we actually do it? I was only talking to a friend the other day about how easily society is conditioned – especially lately....but to inflict ourselves to physical pain without so much as a protest....I tell you – we're screwed.

Mo-Ped was presented with an awesomely designed special tee. Our Bigus Dickus is endowed with many talents....now everyone wants him to draw for them. As a challenge for our creative GM, next week let's all sit nude for him – we'll see if he can capture our athletic prowess.

Our man of the moment was also gifted an awesome AH3 jacket. Even with his mullet, he looked very dapper. Nosh was pulled pork rolls....delicious.

Olive asked me the details of the Fat Bastards' run. I told her that I wasn't going to tell her anything as it's all been in the trash for weeks.

She admitted (again) that she doesn't read it. I told her that I knew that; which is the very reason I take the piss out of her so often in the trash. So, welcome Olive 😊

(Look in the 'Announcements')

Thanks to Olive for the suggestion for me to try Canva as my program for writing Trash. Microsoft Word was doing my head in, so I'm giving Canva a go. It's certainly been better for moving things around.

So, over the weeks, hopefully it gets easier and better.

That is, if your computer decides to let you read it.

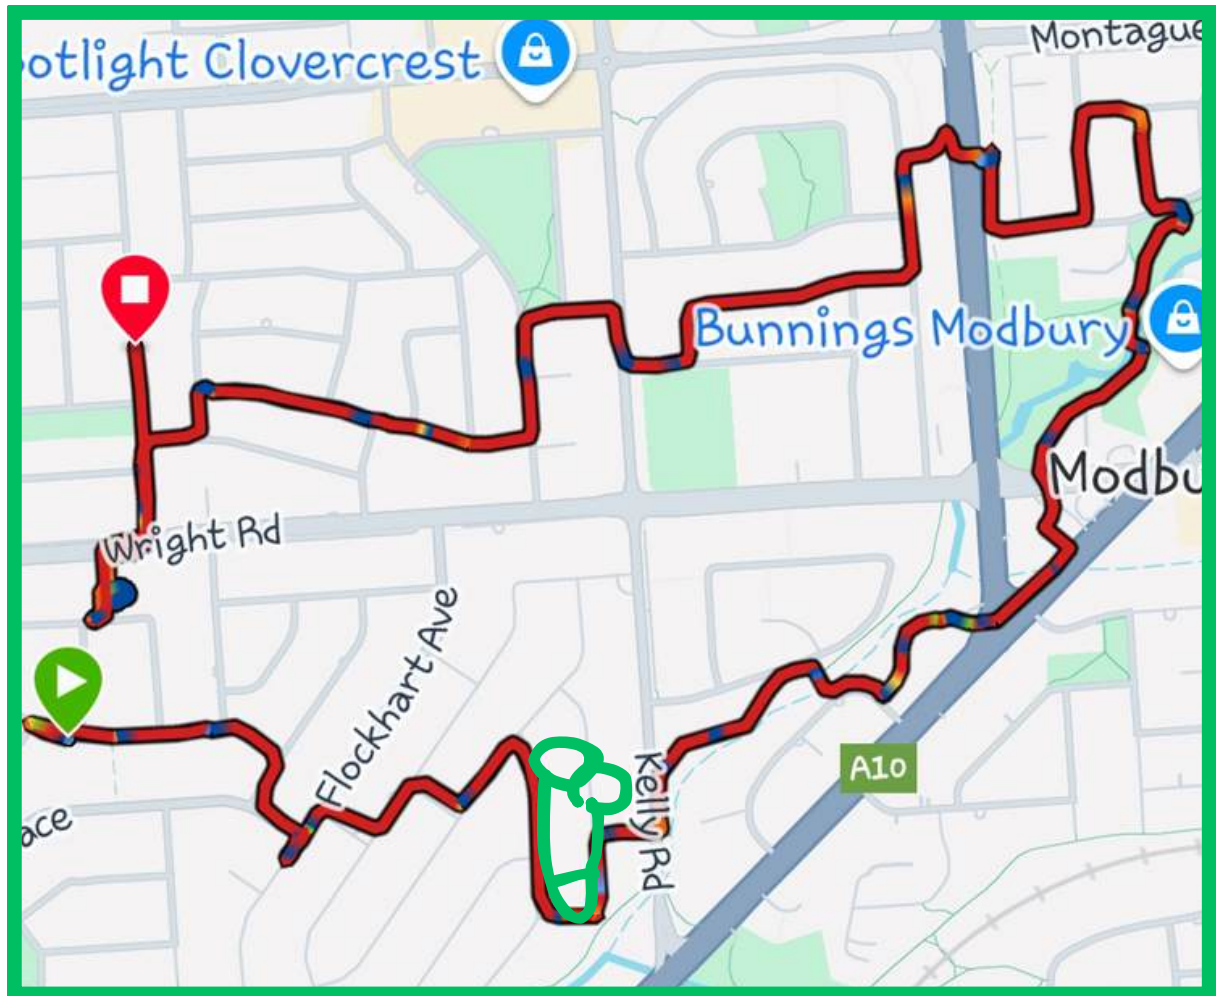

See you at Chesty and Icecan's run next week

Announcements:

What: Fat Bastards Run

When: Saturday 30th November

Where: Meet at the corner of Albert PI and Esplanade - Victor Harbour.

Time: 10.45am

Info: This is a ONE WAY RUN.
The run location is actually from the lookout in Hayward Court, McCracken at 11am
– those who are staying the Friday night will drive past and collect the others from the meeting place above.

Info: This run is for; (you guessed it) Fat Bastards. People of over 100kgs. Never fear.... If you are not 100kgs, you are still welcome to participate. Attendees are weighed down - bricks and other weights are added to you until you weigh 100kgs. It's only a walk, so you won't be running with bricks.

Cost: It's a free run. Includes pies, beer/cider on the run.
Free accommodation – you MUST book with the Hare
Buy your own at pub stops and tea Sat night. Free breaky Sun.

R.S.V.P. You must RSVP to Flash if you are attending. on either 0438 374 846 or maslinnt@netspace.net.au
(This is so you can book accommodation OR negotiate transport from the meeting place)

Accom: Flash's place: 79 Inman Valley Rd, Back Valley.
You may stay Saturday night (and Friday if you are real keen)
There are a few beds available and some space for caravans and m/homes
